

Steve Graham

Steve Graham is the President of Graham Communications. Steve brings over 25 years of marketing experience to his client base, including; radio, television, web, print and social media. Graham Communications, a New Jersey-based marketing firm, specializes in web design, video production and email marketing.

Steve has spent much time over the past eleven years working with K-12 teachers across the country developing state standard-aligned classroom tools for 21st century learners. His web and video work is presently used in classrooms from New Jersey to California, and his numerous educational videos have received over 38 million views on the worldwide web.

Graham Communications was honored to work with Executive Director Sandy Huber and her team on the New Jersey Clean Communities video project. The plan is to now bring the video and corresponding classroom lesson to middle and high schools all across New Jersey to continue to achieve one of the Council's principle missions of sustaining a reduction in litter through education.
