NJ Clean Communities Council Gives “Excellence in Education for Innovation” Award to Liz Sweedy

MORRISTOWN – June 29, 2015 – Liz Sweedy, who serves as Senior Recycling Specialist at Morris County Municipal Utilities Authority (MCMUA) and is the Morris County Clean Communities Coordinator, has received the “Excellence in Education for Innovation” award by New Jersey Clean Communities Council (NJCCC).

Sweedy was awarded for her ingenuity, using balloons and coffee filters to create objects solely out of reused and recycled objects.

Recipients of this award demonstrate commitment, enthusiasm and community pride through educational projects that encourage the proper handling of reusable waste.

The New Jersey Clean Communities Council is a comprehensive, statewide litter-abatement program that has served state residents and visitors for more than 25 years. Learn more about the New Jersey Clean Communities Council at njclean.org.
